A BIG HAUL SATURDAY NIGHT

Sheriff Stafford, Assisted by Two Deputies, and Chief of Police McGhee, Assisted by Two Officers Round Up 54 Gallons of Liquor.

Saturday night there was something big doing near High Point when Sheriff Stafford and assistants captured 54 gallons of liquor after a chase of four miles. It was in this way:

Sheriff Stafford had been notified that there were some women of a questionable character stopping at a certain house along the public highway three miles out. He got busy and brought two deputies along with him from Greensboro and the party was augmented here by Chief of Police McGhee, Officers Yates and Andrews. They arrived at the scene of action about eleven o'clock, too late an hour to catch their intended game but not too late to catch bigger game. They were near the Dave Matthews house, the place spotted, when an auto was seen, a five passenger Ford coming with the speed of the wind. They tried to halt it without success and their suspicion was aroused to the point of believing parties in the car were wanted by them. A chase of four miles ensued in which the officers won out and imagine their surprise when the car was examined and underneath covering they found 12, 4 1/2 gallon kegs of corn liquor in charge of Bud Charles of Waughtown. He was immediately placed under arrest and the whiskey taken in charge. He would not talk but the officers believe he had come towards High Point with the liquor and got wind of their presence, whereupon he started back home when they spied him. Charles knew how to speed up his machine not understanding he was loaded and he burnt the wind at a 40 to 50 mile gait but there were others who could also run.

At the Dave Matthews home an empty 4 1/2 gallon keg was found identical like those containing whiskey seized and it also may be possible that the whiskey was intended for this place. There were no women to be seen there at that hour, no doubt making good their escape previous. Mrs. Matthews claimed she was sick and the officers left her and her husband there as Sheriff Stafford did not want to take the husband away from a sick woman. They were cited Tuesday before Squire Suttentfield but up to this time have failed to put in their appearance.

The officers in giving chase overtook Charles twice, one of them got on the running board of Charles' machine but fell off. Regaining his footing he leveled his gun at one of the tires and punctured it, thereby cutting down his speed.

Don't Get the Big Head.

Bastrop Enterprise:
The "big head" is the popular way of expressing a common and very frequent ailment. It rises from various sources, but the real foundation is a lack of sense. A little money develops it in some people; a few good clothes gives it to others; a little office where a chance is given to exercise a little authority, is often the cause of it while others get it by having a little better job than their associates. The truth is, no sensible person gets the "big head." The one who becomes stuck up and stiff necked from sources of any kind are weak in intellectual calibre.

MORAL-TRADE AT HOME.

Two months ago a citizen of High Point bought paint for a roof, paying therefor 29c a gallon. Two weeks afterwards a drummer came along and said to this man: "why not let me sell you the same roof paint for 20c a gallon?" The order after much "jewing" was placed at 15c per gallon and the buyer thought he had struck a gold mine. Recently a High Point citizen and manufacturer of the same kind of paint (gas tar) said to the same gentleman "why not let me sell you your roof paint?" "What's your price?" asked the prospector buyer? "Six cents a gallon" said the High Point man and the 29c-15c-roof paint buyer said so many ugly words that can't be printed here. Moral-trade at home when you can.

Nearly $10,000,000 Invested in Autos.

What do you think "gentle reader" of nearly ten million dollars being invested in automobiles in North Carolina, yet such is a fact. Inquiry at the Secretary of State's office yesterday shows that up to date license has been issued to 12,600 machines for the year ending June 30, 1915. Averaging these machines at $750.00 each, which is an exceedingly low estimate, would show the value to be $9,570,000. No wonder the cost of living has increased. And this is not the total number of machines in the state for quite a number have not yet paid the license tax. And they had better get busy for this tax was due July 1, and the department has instructed the sheriffs of the different counties in the state to get behind the owners of unlicensed machines and see that they come across with the cash at once, or be fined for their delinquency.

Last year the tax was paid on 7,618 in the state, showing an increase of nearly 5,000 machines within the past twelve months.

There is one county in the state, Mitchell, in which the sheriff reports there is not a single gas wagon.

A VICIOUS AND UNPATRIOTIC ORGANIZATION.

Indianapolis, July 20.—Mr. Samuel M. Foster, president of the German-American National Bank, of Fort Wayne, recently received a "confidential inquiry" from Wilbur F. Wakeman, of the American Protective Tariff League, asking as to his payroll for a certain week this year as compared with the corresponding week last year. "We," wrote Mr. Wakeman, "earnestly ask your co-operation in this inquiry." He did not get much "co-operation," but he did get an answer. Mr. Foster wrote:

"It would be more creditable to your organization if it would use its funds along lines that would tend to decrease any tendency toward business depression that may exist, rather than along lines that have a strong influence toward increasing this tendency. The purpose of your inquiry is so clearly political, and the intent to discredit the present administration and recent legislation so apparent, that this bank declines to have anything to do with it, and feels justified in giving expression to its lack of sympathy with your efforts. It is such movements by such organizations as yours, that justify the charge that there is being made a systematic and disloyal effort to create a condition of mind in the people of the country that will bring about and intensify a spirit of commercial depression. No more discreditable and dishonorable thing could be attempted by men claiming to be loyal citizens of the republic. As you very well know, to spread broadcast over the country any evidence or argument tending to show the existence of business depression only tends to produce and heighten depression. That this is your intention and purpose is revealed in your letter, though not explicitly stated."

It is the American Protective Tariff League that has led the chorus of calamity shouters.

DAY OF ALCOHOL IS PRACTICALLY GONE

Dr. E. L. Stamey Spoke to Students of Summer School Monday.

With an emphatic declaration of belief that the day is not far distant when alcohol with its long train of broken hearts, blighted hopes, wasted fortunes and outraged humanity will be no more, Dr. E. L. Stamey Monday closed a clear and forceful lecture before the faculty and young women of the Normal college summer school. Dr. Stamey, who is medical director of the Keely institute and a recognized authority on alcoholism, had been invited to discuss the subject of alcoholism and its effects from a medical standpoint. His statements of fact with observations and pertinent comments covered a wide range. In its freedom from technicalities the lecture derived force and the graphic pictures which the clear-cut, pungent sentences portrayed carried to each hearer a conviction of duty to enlist in the campaign of education for which the speaker appealed. For it is in the education of youth that Dr. Stamey hopes to accomplish the final and absolute elimination of alcohol.

The speaker expressed surprise that the subject had been so long neglected by the schools and outlined the advantages which might accrue from lectures on the physical effects of alcohol at least twice a year in every school of the land. "If I could get the ear of the school child and teach him or her the awful effects of alcohol upon the human system I would soon arouse a sentiment so great against the curse of liquor that the moral results of temperance, so long and so rightfully advocated, would follow a matter of course," he declared. x x x Speaking of the unusual forms of indulgence, the speaker declared there are a great many men and some women who are addicted to the use of alcohol and who are almost daily getting drunk who never pretend to taste whiskey, brandy, beer or alcohol in any of the forms in which it is usually taken. This reference was to patent medicine addicts and was followed by references to experiences unusual to the average man.

As a producer of disease alcohol was soundly scored. x x x Concluding his appeal for education, Dr. Stamey said: "We must teach the boys of this land that they cannot afford to drink. Men have no right to drink liquor and when they assume such a right, and I hear them talking about it, they make me sick. If a man could take wings and fly away to some unknown country to the unknown or unknownable, where there was no other human being except himself--no mother to weep, no wife to shed tears send up its piteous wail because of the curse of drink; even there it would be a curse and a sin to drink liquor because of its harmful effects upon the human system. How much more sinful and unreasonable for men to drink in an enlightened land where they not only outrage their bodies, their faculties and their organs which were created for noble purposes, but where there are others also to suffer as well?"

As a final warning to the young women composing his audience the speaker said: "The young women of our land must be taught that they cannot afford to marry men that drink; that they had better die and be carried to their graves in their innocence and purity than to be tied to a man whose very being has been debauched by liquor. They should be taught it is dangerous to associate with such men. There are a great many in the country today who are walking degenerates because of the influence of drink. You can see them on the street corners, and I am sorry to say very often at public functions standing around as the big fellows of the community; but they are nothing more than moral vultures flying around in their murky skies ready at the first opportunity to swoop down upon and devour some pure innocent, unsuspecting young woman."

Little Elizabeth Hayden gave a birthday party to a number of her little friends Wednesday at the beautiful home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hayden on East Washington street. A delightful time was had. Dainty refreshments were served and souvenirs given her guests by the little lady, who so charmingly entertained on her 7th birthday.

WAR CLOUDS HANG HEAVY

Russia defiantly casts her lot with Serbia in the war against Austria, and only a miracle can avert a great European conflict. Only a few days ago Austria declared war against the little country of Serbia. Fighting began yesterday, the Serbians blowing up the bridge that spans the river and the Austrians opened fire. Serbia has no ships while Austria has many.

The war will most probably involve Germany, England, France and other great countries. A hard fight is being made to avert international complications. The war scare has demoralized the stock markets of the world. Foreign countries have withdrawn millions of dollars from the United States, anticipating war.

A negro, who it is alleged committed highway robbery, his victim being Charles Shelton, was before Squire Suttentfield Friday, who had him bound over to court.

An automobile club, something that has been needed here for some time will be organized at an early date.

Rev. Sidney Love, Secretary of the North Carolina Prison's Aid Society, spoke at the Air Dome Sunday afternoon at five o'clock to an interested audience on the subject: "The Daughter Thou Gavest Me." Mr. Love is right on the subject of discrimination shown to the benefit of the man when a woman is put on trial for misconduct. He claims, and rightly so, that the man who caused the woman's downfall or any way contributes to her degradation is equally guilty. "Remove the cause," he says and woman will remain clean and virtuous and that means for the man to keep away and when he is guilty to make him pay the penalty the same as the woman, and that will go along ways towards keeping the woman from further erring.

Mrs. John R. Davis has received notice of the death of her sister, Mrs. Sina Coble Goley, at the home of her mother in Worthville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harrison went to Kinston Tuesday where they entered their little son in the institution at that place.

Andrews and C. S. Carroll; J. O. Wood, chief health officer and patrolman southside and J. M. Evans assistant health officer and patrolman northside. A desk sergeant will be on duty all night.
